PHILADELPHIA, JANUARY 1, 1926.

NOTE: We hope to have the opportunity to contribute to your happiness and peace of mind the coming season by the use of our established grades of field seeds. We are very jealous of the reputation of these grades, and our standards of quality will be fully maintained.

QUOTATION CARDS: During the period of inactivity that always marks the closing of each year, it is our custom not to send out quotation cards. With the advent of the New Year, interest in the seed markets is revived, and we shall try to keep our friends posted on values through the medium of these price lists. Prices fluctuate however, from day to day and it is best to phone for quotations whenever it is important to know the exact state of the market.

RED CLOVER promises to be more of a factor during the spring of 1926 than for several years past. Prices are reasonable, especially on French grown seed, and the scarcity of the domestic article has already made a wide spread in prices and has brought about a large increase in the demand for French clover. The market on the American grown seems fairly well stabilized at around the present quoted values, but French seed will fluctuate with the movement of French exchange and the general attitude of the French sellers. The market on French seed is therefore quite erratic; for quotations from day to day, please phone us.

ALFALFA American grown seed is available for all requirements of the Spring season. Imported Alfalfa consists only of Canadian grown seed. Propaganda spread by irresponsible agents to the effect that Alfalfa grown in Italy and other foreign countries will be supplied American farmers, should be promptly denied.

ALSYKE: Contrary to the trend of prices of other field seed items of importance Alsyke is higher than a year ago, and consequently the demand for Alsyke may lag behind in the general demand. Prices have been well maintained around present values for some time past.

SWEET CLOVER: A large crop of fine quality is available at low prices—it is hardly possible that prices can go lower. The latest market report just issued speaks of large portion of crop being off grade, and this may influence market when actual demand begins. Our stocks are of finest quality. Black Wilsons, the popular variety, are selling lower than any time within our knowledge.

LAWN GRASS AND VARIOUS GRASSES: Nearly all the grasses are much higher in price than a year ago, and it is almost a certainty that the prices of our OLD ENGLISH mixtures will be advanced before we go far in the Spring season.

Prices quoted below are to-day's values f. o. b. Philadelphia. Samples sent promptly upon request. Bags not returnable
